Dear EBES Members,

As we close the chapter on an inspiring year, we extend heartfelt thanks to you for your invaluable role in making the Eurasia Business and Economics Society (EBES) a dynamic hub of academic exchange and innovation. Your contributions enrich our community and drive the frontiers of knowledge in economics and business.

The past year was marked by significant milestones. EBES organized four impactful conferences in Athens, Istanbul, Berlin, and Rome, attracting scholars from diverse disciplines and geographies. These gatherings were vibrant forums for presenting cutting-edge research, fostering collaborations, and addressing pressing global issues in economics, finance, and business.

Our journals, the Eurasian Business Review (EABR) and Eurasian Economic Review (EAER), continue to make remarkable strides. Both journals achieved excellent rankings, with EABR ranked in the top quartile (Q1) for economics and EAER maintaining a strong position in the second quartile (Q2). These achievements underscore our commitment to disseminating high-quality research that influences academia and policy alike.

Looking ahead, 2025 promises new opportunities for intellectual engagement and scholarly impact. Our upcoming conferences will continue to provide platforms for sharing innovative ideas and fostering meaningful discussions. Additionally, our journals will feature special issues addressing emerging themes in economics and business, ensuring EBES remains at the forefront of academic discourse.

We warmly invite you to stay engaged by participating in our conferences, submitting your research to our journals, and contributing to our peer-review process as referees. Your active involvement ensures that EBES remains a thriving community for scholarly excellence. We encourage you to explore our resources and share them within your professional networks.

As we step into the new year, we wish you and your loved ones health, happiness, and success. Together, let us continue to elevate the standards of academic inquiry and collaboration.

Sincerely,
EBES Officers
